DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over GB 1366631 in view of Rittenhouse (USPN 6709027) as set forth in the Office action mailed 12/19/05.

3. Applicant's arguments filed 3/18/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Rittenhouse's teaching of press fitting a capillary column into a connector is impractical when dealing with uncured plastic tubing because it would cause the tubing to collapse. Applicant is reminded that the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981). Here, Rittenhouse clearly teaches that curing between adjacent sections of two materials creates a bond between the sections that is mechanically stronger than a bond created by a bonding agent. See col. 4, lns 46-55. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to mechanical strength of the bonds between the adjacent sections of GB 1366631 by curing adjacent sections together as taught by Rittenhouse. Applicant also argues that Rittenhouse teaches the use of bonding agent. This teaching is one embodiment of the invention. Applicant cannot ignore Rittenhouse's embodiment that teaches curing instead of bonding via bonding agent.

Applicant traverses examiner's official notice regarding the application of pressure to increase the surface contact of the tubing. For the sake of illustration, the examiner has provided two patents to show the use of pressurized fluid to maintain the shape of a tubing and to force the wall of the tubing against a surface. The references are: Bucci (USPN 3844332) and Kay et al (USPN 6769276).

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
